After using the scaler on my very first patient, it quickly became my favorite instrument. I noticed that I do not need to apply much force to effectively remove calculus, which makes my clinical work significantly more efficient. Less effort truly translates into greater efficiency during procedures.

Additionally, because the procedure is more effective, it also becomes less uncomfortable for the patient, which is a significant advantage in daily clinical practice. Due to its performance, I find myself cleaning and sterilizing it multiple times throughout the day in order to continue using it with my patients. Its effectiveness is outstanding. I highly recommend this instrument and look forward to its official launch.
